Further Notes

Stop-and Frisk 2014

1. Location Coordinates

The x- and y-coordinates contained in the 2014 data file are coded using the 1983 State Plane Coordinate System 1983 (feet). All five boroughs are located in the Long Island Zone (3104). Conversion calculators from these to latitude and longitude coordinates are available online. See example link below.

www.earthpoint.us/StatePlane.aspx

2. Automation of Reports

Stop-and-Frisk reports from 2014 were prepared by officers using the attached UF-250 form. The automation and processing of these forms has varied and produced differences in the content of the data files. See below for further details.

The NYPD deployed a city-wide, entry-based records management system for the collection of Stop-and-Frisk data in January of 2006. Records from that point on have system-generated location coordinates, a suspected crime field, and a system-generated code for the officer preparing the report.

Prior to the city-wide implementation of the entry-based system, selected precincts participated in testing the system during 2004 and 2005. Records from these precincts will have the suspected crime field as well as the system-generated code for the officer preparing the report.

Records from part of the last quarter of 2003 and from all precincts not participating in the testing of the records management system were automated by a vendor. Entry fields such as the address of the stop, crime suspected, and stopping officer's command for these periods were entered as found on the form by vendor coders.

Records from the first three quarters of 2003 and part of the fourth quarter of 2003 were entered by a central processing unit and do not contain location coordinates or a suspected crime field.

3. Duplicate Records

Content duplicate records have been removed from all of the files.

4. Matching Statistical Snapshot

File record counts may not match statistical snapshots from the NYPD website due to differences in the date of file creation and the removal of duplicate records from the downloadable files.
